THOMAS D. GOBEN is a former local man, son of Mrs. W. I. Goben of this city. Now living in Louisville, Ky., Mr. Goben came in for a nice write-up in the Louisville Courier-Journal the other day.

Here's the entire story, written in Al Aronson's column, "Take Note":

"This story has a refreshingly new twist. It's different, you might say unique, when a postman plays fish and returns a wallet lost overboard by a fisherman.

"The angler is Thomas D. Goben, district manager for the Baldwin Piano Co. He wet his line at Center Hill Dam, Tennessee. While hauling in a bite, his wallet slipped out of his pocket into water 100 feet deep. It was mailed back to Goben, intact and laundered. The finder recovered it without hook or rod. A fish played no part in the reappearance of the billfold, a reversal of the threadbare yarn.

"The tale unfolds in a letter to Goben from Mrs. Robert Officer, manager of Hurricane Boat Dock:

"'Soon after you left, J. D. (the camp cook) went up to Little Hurricane (creek). Your billfold had drifted toward the bank and the money and part of the papers had floated out of the billfold. He brought it back in a box and I have tried to wash the mud out of it and dry it out. Hope it was all you had in it. I will mail them to you tomorrow.'

"Returned to Goben was $33, his driver's license, credit cards and other useful papers. Nothing was lost, nothing was missing. The wet bills and papers, swollen by soaking, had billowed near the wallet."

SPEAKING OF ITEMS, why not drop around to the Methodist Women's Bazaar, to be held Friday at Wesley Center. And you can get something to eat there, too. The women have been working a long time to make this first such affair in the new building a success, and I'll betcha they do.

Lewis Outlines History of Gas Company at Kiwanis

History of the gas company in Harrisburg was outlined to members of the Kiwanis club last night at the Masonic temple by H. C. Lewis, manager of the Southeastern Illinois Gas company.

Operation of the gas company in Harrisburg began in 1930 and Mr. Lewis began his association with the firm in 1929. Butane air gas was first manufactured here but in 1949 the company began receiving natural gas from both the Big Inch and Little Inch pipelines. In addition, late in 1950, the company received some natural gas from a well north of Harrisburg on the B. D. Harris estate. The gas from this well is just about gone, Mr. Lewis said, as an offset well has taken some of the gas from that well.

A plant to manufacture gas also is maintained here to be used in any emergency which would cut the source of supply from the pipelines.

Mr. Lewis, previous to joining the Southeastern Illinois Gas company, has experience with gas in the coal mines of this area.

Dan Davis, president of the club, announced the club's Christmas party would be held Tuesday, Dec. 13, and that the club members would man the Salvation Army kettles one evening before Christmas. The invitation to man the kettles for an evening came from Lt. Andrew Sands, member of the Kiwanis club.

Turncoat POW R. R. Tenneson To Return Home

Message from Peiping Says Ex-Prisoner to Arrive at Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — The British Embassy in Peiping has informed the United States government that turncoat war prisoner Richard R. Tenneson, 22, of Alden, Minn., will be released by the Communist Chinese, it was disclosed today.

The message from Peiping said Tenneson would cross the border from Red China to Hong Kong today. He did not appear, but observers said he may show up Thursday.

The U. S. consul general here had no other information about Tenneson's reported plans other that that relayed by the Hong Kong government and the British Red Cross. The latter also received information from Peiping concerning Tenneson.

Tenneson was understood to have wanted to leave Red China ever since three other turncoat war prisoners returned last July. They were Cpl. William A. Cowart, of Monticello, Ark.; Cpl. Otho G. Bell of Hillsboro, Miss., whose wife lived in Olympia, Wash.; and Cpl. Lewis W. Griggs, of Jacksonville, Tex.

Tenneson wrote several letters which indicated strongly that he no longer wanted to stay in Red China. The most recent one said he expected to leave soon.

Tenneson was among a group of 23 American servicemen who refused repatriation in the prisoner exchange at the end of the Korean War.

AIRLINE TICKET AWAITS SON IN HONG KONG, MOTHER SAYS

ALDEN, Minn. (AP) — "I'm so thankful. I don't know what to say," Mrs. Portia Howe said today when she learned her turncoat soldier son, Richard Tenneson, 22, will be coming home from Red China.

"The Lord has heard my prayers," Mrs. Howe said in a voice choked with emotion. "Seeing Richard again will be a terrific emotional thing for all of us."

She was informed of the latest development by the United Press by telephone from Minneapolis.

Mrs. Howe said she felt, "as only a mother can feel," that Richard may be coming home this week but said his recent letters didn't indicate much.

In a letter she received Tuesday, Richard didn't speak of coming home, although he ended the letter: "Be seeing you."

"There's a Northwest Orient Airline ticket waiting for him in Hong Kong," Mrs. Howe said. "It's been there since Sept. 17."

Mrs. Howe said she had made arrangements with the airline for the ticket.

RICHARD C. DAVENPORT, who becomes cashier of the Harrisburg National bank tomorrow, succeeding the late Henry O. Buell. (Metcalf Studio Photo)

R. C. Davenport New Cashier at Harrisburg Nat'l

Richard C. Davenport tomorrow will assume the position of cashier of the Harrisburg National bank, it was announced today by the bank officers and directors.

Mr. Davenport is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Davenport Sr. of this city and has been employed in Chicago for nearly ten years. He succeeds the late Henry O. Buell, who was the bank cashier for a number of years prior to his death on Nov. 6.

The new cashier is a graduate of the Harrisburg Township high school in the class of 1938 and is a graduate of the University of Illinois, receiving his degree in Business Administration from the College of Commerce.

He resigned the post of assistant credit manager of Hart, Schaffner and Marx in Chicago to accept the position in Harrisburg. He has been with the Chicago firm for nearly 10 years.

Mr. Davenport had only a semester remaining to obtain his degree at the state university when he left school to enter the service during World War II. That was in 1942. He went overseas in 1943, serving as a captain in the U. S. Marine Corps in the South Pacific theater.

It was in the service that he met Miss Dorothy O'Rouke of San Francisco, who was a captain in the Nurses Corps and was in charge of evacuating wounded from Pacific islands. Capt. O'Rouke received the Presidential Citation and Medal for her outstanding work.

He was separated from the service in 1946, the year he and Miss O'Rouke were married and the year he completed his education at the University of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Davenport, who have been living in Highland Park, Ill., have moved into the Hutton residential property at 10 East Walnut street in Harrisburg. They have two children, Richard, 4, and Scott, 2.

Two of Quadruplets Born to Farm Wife Die Despite Battle to Save Lives

ALMA, Ga. (UP) — Quadruplets were born Tuesday to a tenant farm wife here but two of the babies died despite efforts to save their lives by the entire hospital staff.

The third and fourth babies—a boy and a girl—died this morning in incubators where they had been placed after delivery.

The other two babies, both girls, were reported in good condition.

Dr. W. W. Sharpe, a local physician, delivered the quads. As news of the multiple births spread thru the hospital off duty nurses set up an all-night vigil to be of service at the small and busy little hospital.

Sharpe explained that 12 or 15 day-shift nurses worked around the clock to help the hard-pressed night staff of the small hospital. All the babies were kept in incubators.

The four babies, weight about three pounds each, were born to Mrs. E. W. Nelson, 34, within about 20-minutes after being brought to the hospital by her husband from their home near Douglas, about 20 miles from here.

"What in the world are we going to do to take care of them all," she said on learning the infant she expected to bear was actually a foursome. She already had borne seven children, six of them surviving.

"It looks like we've just got more than we can handle," Nelson, 36, told Sharpe after recovering from his own amazement. Sharpe said Nelson at first "just stared off into space—he was really stunned."

Heavy Snows Hit Northern Areas of Nation

Vicious Weather Blamed for At Least 39 Deaths

By United Press

Heavy snows joined forces today with the worst cold wave of the season.

Northern Michigan and western New York state were covered by up to 6 feet of snow, sub-freezing temperatures drove as far south as Florida, and vicious weather was blamed for at least 39 deaths across the nation.

Heart attacks or traffic accidents caused by the wintry blasts accounted for 14 deaths, and 19 persons died in fires, most of them caused by overheated stoves. In addition, six junior college students were killed when their car smashed into the side of a speeding train during a dense fog near Hanford, Calif.

There were at least five dead at Buffalo, N. Y., where the biggest one-day November snowstorm in the city's history brought the community's life practically to a halt Tuesday.

Schools were closed and practically all factories had to shut down. The snow was officially measured at 19.9 inches, but some suburbs reported 4 feet and hundreds of motorists were marooned in drift-stalled cars.

Vacation for Children

Drifts 6 feet deep were reported in Michigan's upper peninsula and the city of Kalamazoo was buried under a 14-inch snowfall. The storm gave 75,000 school children in southwest Michigan a vacation and was blamed for at least three deaths.

In such wintry cities as International Falls, Minn., and Ironwood, Mich., meanwhile, the snow had long ceased to be a novelty. International Falls has had snowfalls for 32 straight days, while there was 66 inches of snow on the ground at Ironwood.

The immense arctic air mass was centered over the Dakotas and Nebraska, driving the temperature to 17 below zero at Bismarck, N. D., and stretching from the Rockies to the Atlantic seabord and the Gulf coast.

Meanwhile, a University of Chicago geologist predicted a really severe cold wave coming up. Dr. Cesare Emilani figured that another ice age will be due by about 11955 a. d.

Harrisburg Stores Ready for Christmas Season; Ads in Register Open Campaign

The nippy weather of this week brought with it the atmosphere of Christmas time and Harrisburg merchants are ready for the pre-Yuletide season. In fact, today's The Daily Register is the Christmas Opening edition for Harrisburg business.

Christmas lights have been strung in uptown Harrisburg and more decorations will be installed in the next few days to give a true holiday picture to the city.

Harrisburg businesses are ready for the buying season, a survey revealed today. They have ample stocks of new, fresh merchandise on hand and more stock will be flowing into the city daily to replenish items that are sold.

So Harrisburg is the setting for pre-Christmas time in southeastern Illinois and merchants here already are letting the people of the area know it. They have started big advertising campaigns starting this week in The Daily Register to tell the people where they can see the biggest and best selections of all types of merchandise at value prices.

To get to the people of southeastern Illinois outside the regular coverage area of The Daily Register, an eight-page edition of The Advertiser, chock full of valuable Christmas suggestions, has been published and distributed by The Register in cooperation with Harrisburg merchants.

Whether it be automobiles, furniture, appliances, jewelry, clothing, foods, quilts, blankets, toys or any type of gift for Christmas, the survey showed that the best selection can be found right here in Harrisburg.

Three-State Farm Organization Gives New Tractor to Eisenhower

GETTYSBURG (AP) — President Eisenhower, feeling "very well indeed," inspected a new gift tractor today and said: "I think I'll ask my doctor how soon I can get on that thing."

The President warmly thanked spokesmen from three farm groups for presenting him with the $4,000 yellow and red tractor and deep cultivator. He showed them proudly around his barn and part of his farm, staying outside for more than half an hour in freezing weather.

In an obvious reference to the heart attack he suffered on Sept. 24, from which he is recuperating during an extended stay at his farm home here, the President told the farm delegation:

"I always had an idea about the things I would do when I got on a farm. Now I guess I'll have to settle for driving the tractor."

Laughing and apparently carefree, Mr. Eisenhower braved the frosty morning in a suede leather sports coat. A brown cashmere scarf was wrapped around his neck and under his sports coat he wore a sky-blue Shetland sweater. He also wore bright yellow socks, brown crepe-solid shoes, and brown herringbone slacks.

He wore his favorite tan Stetson throughout.

Obviously delighted by the tractor, Mr. Eisenhower patted it and leaned against it. Road dust brushed off the giant rubber wheels onto his coat sleeve, but the President didn't notice it.

The new tractor boasts hydraulic controls and such un-rural innovations as long and short wave radio, cigaret lighter, and front and rear lights for night driving.

The one thing it lacked that Mr. Eisenhower needs before he can drive it is power steering—a $150 extra that the manufacturer promised was on the way and would be installed later.

It wasn't as if the President really needed a tractor, although he no doubt can find a use for it. Four tractors already are in operation on the approximately 500 acres Mr. Eisenhower owns or controls.

None of them, however, actually belongs to the President. Like most of the equipment in use on his tracts, they are owned by Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Fevins, who supervises the Eisenhower farm, and others who actually till the President's soil.

The newest addition to the Eisenhower tractor line was the gift of Farm Bureau Cooperative Assn. members in Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania.

Officials of the three groups were on hand for the presentation as were representatives of the manufacturers, photographers, and newspapermen.

The equipment was the latest in a continuing flow of gifts received by the President and Mrs. Eisenhower since they bought their farm home here in 1950.

The gifts include a growing herd of Aberdeen Angus cattle and a couple of milk cows. Also the motorized "surrey with a fringe on top" in which the President likes to tour his rolling acres.

Congressman Gray Stricken Ill While On Guatemala Tour

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Rep. Kenneth Gray (D-Ill) today was recovering rapidly in Baptist hospital here from an attack of acute gastroenteritis suffered while on an inspection tour in Guatemala.

Doctors said Gray was in "good" condition and probably would be able to return to Illinois in another day or two.

The 30-year-old congressman became ill while a nine-man congressional delegation was checking progress on the new inter-American highway about 90 miles from Guatemala City. Rep. T. A. Thompson (D-La) took Gray to an airport at Guatemala City by car. From there he was flown to New Orleans.

Drive Safely on Safe Driving Day, Eisenhower Asks

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower today appealed to all Americans to drive safely—especially Thursday, which has been designated "safe driving day."

"The need is obvious and urgent," Mr. Eisenhower said in a statement.

Last year, he said, "an American man, woman or child was killed in traffic every 15 minutes. Someone was injured every 25 seconds. And, this year, the record is worse: More people are dying; more are injured and crippled."

The President said Safe Driving Day is "a great national effort to save lives."

"The immediate objective of S-D Day is to have 24 hours without a single traffic accident. The long-range, and more important objective is to impress upon all of us the necessity of safe driving and safe walking every day of the year."

'Lean' Angus of Teen-Age Girl Is Grand Champ

CHICAGO (AP) — Dr. A. D. (Dad) Weber revealed today he was thinking like a house wife when he picked a teen-age girl's streamlined Angus as the grand champion steer of the International Livestock Exposition.

Weber, dean of agriculture at Kansas State College, said the housewife is laying down the rules for cattle judging these days and he kept that in mind when he picked 16-year-old Nancy Turner's jet black steer as king of the big farm show Tuesday.

"The housewife doesn't like fat—she trims it off," Weber said. For that reason, he said, the current trend is away from "too fat" animals.

Weber's comment on beef finish—the amount of fat an animal carries—was regarded by some feeders as another step in one of the most significant changes in the industry in the last 50 years.

Julius is Lean

They pointed out that Julius, Miss Turner's 986-pound champion, is only the sixth steer under 1,000 pounds to win the exposition's top award since the show began in 1900.

The red-haired Champaign, Ill., farm girl burst into tears and then leaned over Julius' back to kiss Weber when the award was announced.

It was the third straight year that a teen-age girl has exhibited the grand champion steer and the second time in a row that the junior grand champion has gone on to win the top prize.

Nancy will probably get about $20,000 when Julius is sold at auction Thursday. She said she plans to use the money to "go to college."

Kentucky Wins Reserve

At the companion International Hay and Grain Show, Willard C. Kirk of Jeffersonville, Ohio, was named "corn king" for the third time.

Mt. Carmel Man Fatally Shot

MOUNT CARMEL, Ill. (AP)—Elvis R. Propper, 35, Mount Carmel, was shot and killed instantly Tuesday night, police said today.

Police said Charles L. Hayes, 51, shot Propper after Hayes ordered him to stop fighting with another man near Hayes' house.

State's Atty. Joe Townsend said Hayes would be held for action by a grand jury but he did not say what charge would be filed against him.

Propper had gone to Hayes' house to apologize for a fight that occurred earlier in the day. Propper had been living at Hayes' house and Hayes ordered him to move out after the fight.

When Propper returned to Hayes' house, he began fighting with Raymond Lowe. Witnesses said Hayes went to the house and returned with a shotgun and told Propper to stop fighting.

Police said Propper started toward Hayes, who was on a porch, and was about 10 feet away when Hayes fired the shotgun. The charge hit Propper in the stomach.

Townsend said Hayes told him he had heard that Propper had badly beaten other men in fights and he believed Propper was going to attack him. Hayes said "I knew I could only protect myself by shooting," according to Townsend.

10 Bodies Taken From Ruins at Base in Alaska

Three Persons are Missing, More May Be in Wreckage

EIELSON AIR FORCE BASE, Alaska (AP)—Authorities feared today that as many as 15 persons were killed in an eight-family apartment which was sliced by a crashing F84F Thunderjet.

Ten bodies were taken from the ice-coated, charred ruins of the dwelling which eight enlisted airmen and their families occupied, and three other tenants of the buildings were unaccounted for.

Searchers who plodded through the rubble in 26-degrees-below-zero weather believed the three missing tenants and possibly more might be found in the ruins.

The death toll couid go as high as 15," Major John Orr, public information officer for Eielson AFB, Alaska's only Strategic Air Command base, said.

Six of the seven persons injured in Tuesday's tragedy were in critical condition.

A terrified young woman, Pamela Harris, 21, sobbed as she described the force of the plane's impact.

"I saw one woman with her arm torn off," Miss Harris, daughter of an enlisted couple, said. "It was horrible."

The only identified victim of the tragedy was the pilot of the jet plane, Lt. Alfred F. Pounders, 28, of Monticello, Miss. His body was recovered.

Eye witnesses said Pounders' plane, which had just taken off from Eielson AFB, skimmed over base headquarters and struck the housing project like a giant bowling ball. It ripped the apartment building from one end to the other before exploding and bursting into flames.

The plane, after cutting through the enlisted men's quarters, stopped only four inches from an officers' dwelling, as though conscious of rank.

"The plane came over very low, right over the headquarters building where I was working," one enlisted man said. "We knew it was in trouble. You could tell by the way it sounded.

"We saw a big puff of smoke and flame. Then the whole headquarters building shook, following a tremendous explosion. Flames and smoke poured out of the windows and doors of the buildings. Wreckage was scattered all around."

The crash occurred when children were home from school shortly before 1 p. m. (AST). Firemen turned into human icicles as water from their hoses drenched them and froze. Air Force men and Army troops relieved regular firefighters who became encased in a coating of ice.

Fred A. Sorri, a civilian plumber, had just finished an installation in one of the buildings shattered by the plane.

"It bounced off the roofs of two buildings, setting them afire, and then plunged right through the dwelling," he said.

Orr said the pilot apparently had control failure.

"He tried to avoid hitting the houses, but he couldn't get much altitude," Orr said.

Orr said no official statement on the final death toll would be released for 48 hours and names of the victims would not be released until then.

Churchill Birthday Fund Totals More Than $700,000

LONDON (U.P.)—The British public has subscribed more than $700,000 to former Prime Minister Winston Churchill's 80th birthday fund, it was announced today.

Churchill is 81 today. The fund was started several weeks before his birthday last year and now is closed. He has not announced plans for the money, but it is believed he plans to start some sort of foundation.

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)— President Eisenhower paid tribute to Sir Winston Churchill on his 81st birthday today by sending him a special gold medallion expressing this country's "enduring gratitude" for Churchill's leadership in war and peace.

Safe-Driving Day

Editorial — BY BRUCE BIOSSAT

It would be wonderful if every day were a safe-driving day for American motorists. But it isn't. So for the second straight year President Eisenhower has set aside a single Safe-Driving Day in the hope the careful habits it promotes will spread like a contagion.

The goal last year was to get through the day without a single fatality in traffic. It wasn't realized. There were 51 deaths, only a moderate drop from the 60 recorded on the same date in 1953.

This year the President's Committee for Traffic Safety is putting stress on driving rules.

The motorist is advised first to check his car to see if it's fit to use. Brakes, tires, windshield wipers, lights, steering mechanism all should be inspected. The driver who takes their condition for granted may be sealing his death warrant.

Once he's behind the wheel and rolling, the driver should conscientiously obey all traffic regulations and give the other fellow a sportsmanlike break.

Particularly, he is cautioned to stay within prescribed traffic lanes, to avoid passing on hills or curves or in any other circumstances where there isn't enough room. He should keep ample stopping space between his car and the one ahead, and be very watchful at all intersections.

The admonitions simply highlight some of the worst trouble spots the motorist encounters. They add up to two major points:

Anyone sitting behind the wheel of a car must maintain continuous, unflagging alertness to the driving situation he finds himself in. He must observe the condition of his car, of the road, the weather, the traffic flowing about him. All of these he must adjust to, according to the rules, according to common sense, and according to the code of conduct that dictates consideration for the other fellow.

Second, he must so manage his other living habits that they do not compromise his driving performance. Thus he should not drink if he intends to drive. And he should start out early enough so he can reach his destination without speeding or getting reckless.

If the driver can remember to govern himself and his car properly on Safe-Driving Day, let's hope that's a big start forward doing the same on the other 364.

Quash Death Sentence in Symonds Slaying

SINGAPORE (UP) — A Singapore appeals court today quashed the death sentence imposed on Chinese truck driver Ong Ah Too for the mob murder of United Press Correspondent Gene Symonds. Ong walked out of court a free man.

Chief Justice John Whyatt read the judgment which said Ong's defense plea was not adequately put to the jury and that there was no independent corroboration of evidence presented to the court.

Symonds, 29, of Dayton, Ohio, was beaten to death by Chinese hoodlums last May 12 while covering Communist - inspired strikes and riots. Two witnesses testified at the trial of Ong they saw him in the mob. One said he saw Ong beat Symonds unmercifully as he lay unconscious on the ground.

Ong was convicted on Aug. 16 and sentenced to death. An Indian, S. Suppiah, was acquitted of charges he was a member of the "unlawful assembly" which resulted in the death of Symonds. Ong appealed the sentence.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Sec. Humphrey Will Sacrifice Balanced Budget For Winning Cold War; Cotton Belt Disapproves U. S. Dollars To Increase Egyptian Irrigation; Senate Investigates Discrimination Against Small Truckers.

WASHINGTON. — Most important development inside the Eisenhower cabinet is that George Humphrey, tightfisted secretary of the treasury, seems to be loosening up on U. S. dollars to the Near East and Asia. This will probably mean no reduction in taxes next year.

To those who have listened to Secretary Humphrey's quiet but eloquent pleas for a balanced budget, this is like reporting that there's a big seam opening up in the side of the Washington monument. For hitherto, George Humphrey has been as impervious as the monument in listening to arguments for more spending abroad or anywhere else. Over and over again he has patiently explained inside the cabinet that he was now on the two-yard line, that one more push could put the ball across the goal of a balanced budget.

However, with Russia stealing the old Truman-Acheson Point 4 program of sending technical advisers all over the Near and Middle East, and even offering to build the Aswan dam for Egypt, Secretary Humphrey has finally decided that is no time to sacrifice the cold war for a balanced budget.

John Hollister, Senator Taft's old law partner whom Ike appointed head of foreign aid, has actually urged a 20 per cent curtailment of foreign-aid spending, in the present budget. However, Secretary Humphrey, though originally siding vigorously with Hollister, now seems to be veering just as definitely the other way.

BENSON CARES

Secretary Benson has called the turn on those like Jim Patton, head of the Farmers Union, who have been shouting about giving away some of our surplus food abroad. He has allocated a large amount of food to care for Christmas distribution.

Enough food for 2,000,000 packages of 22 pounds each are now available for $1 each to anyone who wants to engage in people-to-people friendship.

The dollar actually does not pay for the food, since you couldn't begin to buy 22 pounds for six times a dollar. The dollar really goes for wrapping, delivery, etc.

CARE has built up a fine organization through the years and is able to deliver the food where it's most needed, though anyone who buys a package can designate the country of destination.

Here is a chance to do what governments can't always do, and help relieve the food surplus in the U. S. A. in a way that will win friends outside the U. S. A.

NILE VS. COTTON BELT

Proposals before the World Bank to finance part of the Aswan dam on the upper Nile may help the battle against communism in the Near East but they've brought smouldering resentment in the deep South.

Building the Aswan dam will mean that about 2,000,000 more acres of Egyptian land will be used for cotton in indirect competition with American cotton.

Today Secretary Benson has about 7,000,000 bales of cotton in U. S. warehouses which he cannot sell at home and which would hit Egypt and other cotton-growing countries a severe blow if sold on the world market. Last summer, Benson proposed selling this cotton abroad, while keeping the price high at home. However, Secretary of State Dulles objected. He claimed it would ruin Egyptian economy, hurt other cotton countries, chiefly Brazil. Dulles won his point. Benson still has his cotton.

Shortly thereafter Dulles woke up to the fact that Egyptian cotton which he had protected was being traded to Czechoslovakia for arms in a barter deal which has precipitated a serious crisis in the Near East. It's the type of deal the United States has refused to make for fear of hurting friendly allies.

This of course caused resentment in the deep South. Now there's more resentment over the proposal to use American dollars to build the Aswan dam and create more Egyptian cotton acreage.

PROBE OF TRUCKERS

Beginning tomorrow (December 1) a small trucker in New Jersey will not be able to drive to Philadelphia with a load of farm produce and haul a nonagricultural load on his return trip. He loses his "agricultural exemption" and has to return empty.

Beginning tomorrow this will be true of all small truckers trucking farm produce. They will not be able to cross state lines with a farm crop one way and a nonfarm crop the other way without getting an ICC license — all of which is one reason Senator Sparkman of Alabama, head of the Senate Small Business committee, is starting important hearings on big truckers vs. little truckers.

Senators are especially sore at the Interstate Commerce Commission for sneaking across its new regulation dropping the "agricultural exemption" effective December 1, instead of March 1, 1956, as promised. Senators were planning to pass legislation to help the small trucker or farmer who hauls watermelons from Florida to Washington, or peaches from Georgia to New York and wants to haul a pay load of something else back home.

But last summer the ICC promised to suspend its ruling until March 1. Then, shortly after Congress got out of town, it turned round and abolished the "farm exemption" effective tomorrow.

Sparkman will investigate other alleged discrimination against small truckers; including such cases as that of A. W. Hawkins, hauling freight between Charlottesville, Va., and Baltimore, who wanted to expand into Richmond by buying another small company. He was immediately confronted with lengthy, money-consuming ICC hearings.

In contrast, Sparkman found that when the big McLean Trucking company started buying up small truckers in Virginia it got nothing but smiles from ICCommissioners.

May Publish Secret Testimony Of Hugh W. Cross

WASHINGTON (UP) — Democratic Sen. John L. McClellan's Senate investigating subcommittee will consider publishing the secret testimony which led to the resignation of Hugh W. Cross as chairman of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

McClellan said, however, he opposes public hearings in the case.

Cross, a former Illinois Lieutenant governor, quit Friday with a blast at "baseless charges" which he said were leveled against him at a secret subcommittee hearing Nov. 15. The charges have not been made public.

McClellan, who is home in Arkansas, issued a statement on the case Tuesday through the office of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), a subcommittee member.

Cross was questioned about his connection with the award of a contract for transfer of passengers and baggage between Chicago's eight railroad stations. When reporters asked if he had discussed the contract with rail officials, Cross refused to comment.

David Anglin, who is in the U. S. Air Force, left for Cheyenne, Wyo., Monday for schooling after spending a leave here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Anglin. He has finished his basic training at San Antonio, Texas.

An improved flame-resistant treatment for cotton fabric, much superior to previous treatments, has been developed by Department of Agriculture research.

Symphony Conductor Takes Back Seat To Louis Armstrong

CHICAGO (UP)—Fritz Reiner, conductor of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, revealed today he had to take a back seat to jazz trumpeter Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong.

Reiner, returning from an European tour, said he found a crowd of hundreds waiting when his plane landed at the Zurich, Switzerland, airport.

The Swiss didn't pay any attention to the distinguished conductor. But they let out an enthusiastic cheer when another plane landed with Satchmo and his band.

McDONALD—We wish to thank our relatives, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy shown us during the death of our husband and father, Will McDonald. We want to thank those who brought in food and the ones who sent flowers, for the many who called at the house and offered their homes to those who came from out of town. We also wish to thank the Gibbons funeral home, the choir, pianist and the Rev. Clayton Humphrey for his message of comfort and all who assisted in any way.

Search for Couple Missing from Bloody Home

LEBANON, Ill. (AP) —Authorities here launched an area-wide search for the bodies of a young couple missing from their bloody, bullet-riddled home since Sunday.

"This is the crime of a maniac," said Chief Deputy Clifford Ford of St. Clair County.

Every room in the neat white house was blood-spattered, and there were at least five bullet holes in the front door and windows.

Police theorized Harold Smith, 30, was shot in the living room. His wife, Arlene, 35, apparently had been mending a pair of overalls at a table in the kitchen. A piece of a partial denture was found on the floor.

The Smith home, a one-story, five-room house, is located a mile east of here, some 25 miles east of St. Louis, Mo. It is in an area frequented by hunters.

Stevenson Hits 'Slogan' Type Housing Program

MIAMI (AP) — Adlai Stevenson charged today the Republican administration has been attempting to conduct the public housing program with "slogans" and a "lukewarm attitude."

"Well, you can't build houses out of slogans or in the middle of the road, evidently," the former Illinois governor declared in a speech at a meeting of the nation's mayors.

Stevenson arrived late Tuesday night to finish a four day tour of Florida which voted against him in 1952. He stayed at the Miami Beach home of Jacob Arvey, Chicago Democratic leader who backed Stevenson's rise in politics.

Stevenson's speech to the annual congress of the American Municipal Assn. was billed as non-political. For the most part he stuck to the subject of housing problems in the nation's cities and suggested remedies.

"I suspect that we face today no more basic need, surely none requiring bolder thinking and more aggressive action, than to make the American city a decent place in which to live and raise a family," Stevenson said.

Criticizing government efforts at all levels, Stevenson said, "I think our total governmental operation in this field is subject to indictment for confusion at the top, for apathy in the middle, and lethargy at the bottom.

"Vital segments of the federal urban redevelopment program — notably public housing—have now been turned over to administrators who at heart oppose what they are called upon to administer," he said.

"Behind them there is the lukewarm attitude of our highest policymakers."

Police Fail to Get Confession From Cab Driver

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A marathon police grilling failed today to wring a confession from cab driver Lloyd Miller that he raped and killed an 8-year-old girl.

Miller was questioned for eight hours and given two lie detector tests before police allowed him to go to a jail cell at 2 a. m. CST.

Authorities reported that the lie tests were inconclusive and that he stoutly denied any connection with the vicious murder of little Janice May at Canton, Ill., last Saturday.

The investigation turned today to Canton, where authorities planned to check a number of alibis given by the handsome, 29-year-old cab driver.

Sheriff Virgil Ball said that Miller maintained at one point that a man with a knife forced him to pack his belongings and drive from Canton to Pekin, Ill., early Sunday.

At another point, Miller said he fled from Canton because he was afraid he would be arrested and accused of the murder, Ball reported.

Killed in Rail Yard

Ball also told newsmen that Miller talked of the killing to a woman companion Saturday night and related details that "only the killer could know."

The woman said that Miller told her "he was sorry he did it," Ball said. However, Miller denied making any such statement.

Janice was killed in a Canton rail yard as she walked to a playground near her home. The murderer tore the clothes from her body, attacked her, and then battered her head in. Her two brothers, who had been waiting for Janice at the playground, found the dying girl.

Authorities ended the gruelling questioning to make sure that any prosecution would not be endangered by charges that Miller was mistreated. However, they said he might be taken from Sangamon county jail later today for more questioning and possibly another lie test.

Miller is reported to have a wife and child in the Louisville, Ky., area. In 1949 he was arrested twice on auto theft charges. The only charge against him at present is for the theft of the taxicab which he abandoned in Pekin.

Complete Jury For Murder Trial at Marion

MARION, Ill. (AP) — Prosecution and defense attorneys made their opening statements today in the trial of a former policeman accused of murder.

A 12-man jury was completed late Tuesday to hear the trial of 63-year-old William Albert Priddy of Carterville in Williamson county circuit court.

Smith was killed by a shotgun charge fired through a window as he slept in a chair in the home of a friend.

Actress Finishes Role After Suffering Deep Cut on Lip

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Julie Harris, Broadway's newest Joan of Arc, bowed to a thunderous ovation Tuesday night with blood streaming down her chin from a deep cut on her lip.

The curtain was lowered and for 10 suspenseful minutes, the worried audience did not know whether the show would continue.

After a doctor finished treatment, the curtain went up and Miss Harris finished her role in the old tradition. Members of the audience in the front row said her lip was bleeding for the remaining half-hour of the play.

San Francisco Dons Picked To Win National Cage Title By UP Board of Coaches

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of San Francisco's defending NCAA basketball champions, led by All-America Bill Russell, were picked today by an overwhelming vote of the United Press Board of Coaches to win the national title once again.

In a near-unanimous display of sentiment, 33 of the 35 outstanding coaches who will rate the college basketball teams weekly for the United Press during the coming season voted Phil Woolpert's Dons as the best bet for 1955-56.

North Carolina State was the top pre-season choice of one coach and St. Louis University was selected by another. Of the two coaches who did not vote for San Francisco one picked the West Coast Dons third and the other seventh. On a point basis, that gave San Francisco 342 out of a possible total of 350.

Picked Top Team

San Francisco was picked as the nation's No. 1 team last season after winning 23 out of 24 games during the regular campaign. The Dons then lived up to their top ranking by winning the NCAA championship at Kansas City, beating LaSalle in the final, 77-63.

Kentucky, which has a perennial basketball powerhouse under Coach Adolph Rupp, was picked as the No. 2 team in the coaches' pre-season sizeup, followed by Utah, North Carolina State and Iowa. Dayton was picked No. 6; Illinois and UCLA were tied for seventh, with Duquesne's 1955 National Invitation tournament champions ninth and George Washington 10th.

According to these pre-season ratings, here are the teams the coaches expect to win the major conference championships:

Southeastern—Kentucky.
Skyline—Utah.
Atlantic Coast—North Carolina State.
Big Ten—Iowa.
Pacific Coast—UCLA.
Southern—George Washington.
Missouri Valley—St. Louis.
Southwest—Southern Methodist.
Big Seven—Kansas.
Ivy—Princeton.

Seven Are Repeaters

Of this pre-season's top 10 teams seven were in the select group last season. They were San Francisco and Kentucky, which were 1-2; Utah (fourth), Iowa (fifth), North Carolina State (sixth), Duquesne (seventh) and Dayton (10th). LaSalle, the NCAA runner-up which lost both All-America Tom Gola and Coach Ken Loeffler after earning the No. 3 ranking last season, was among the also-rans.

Holy Cross, New England's leading hope for national prominence, was picked No. 11, followed in order by Marquette, Fordham, Washington and Alabama. St. Louis and Indiana were tied for 16th; Oregon State and Southern Methodist tied for 18th and Kansas was 20th.

Vienna Wins 81-78 Battle from Pope County; Rosiclare Edges Cave-in-Rock

Vienna and Rosiclare were the winners in Greater Egyptian conference basketball play Tuesday night, winning over Pope County and Cave-in-Rock respectively.

Vienna and Pope Co. battled in a high scoring game at Golconda, with Vienna, behind seven points at the end of the third quarter, rallying to win 81-78.

Vienna jumped out in front, 22-14, in the first period but Pope County made a surge in the second quarter, scoring 29 points and led, 43-42 at halftime.

Yandell, with 32 points, was high for Vienna. Walker had 27 to lead the Pope County scorers.

Rosiclare and Cave-in-Rock battled all the way before the home town Rosiclare Bears gained a 54-51 decision.

The score was close at all times, with Rosiclare trailing 11-9 at the quarter, holding a 27-26 halftime advantage and after three quarters still on top by a point, 41-40.

D. Seay led Rosiclare scoring with 14 points. Smith, with 13, was high for Cave-in-Rock.

Rosiclare's coach, Millard Davis, watched his team in action for the last time Tuesday as he is scheduled to report for military service within the next day or so. The coaching duties at Rosiclare will be taken over by Bill Piland.

Basilio-De Marco Bout Quoted At Even Money

BOSTON (AP)—Handlers of welterweight champion Carmen Basilio were suspicious of a betting coup today as "even money" was surprisingly quoted for his first title defense against ex-champ Tony De Marco in their return bout tonight at Boston Garden.

Co-managers Johnny De John and Joe Netro asked the Massachusetts Boxing Commission for reassurances of a square deal for 28-year-old Carmen.

"I simply can't understand it," said De John. "Last June, Carmen was favored at 9-5 for their first fight at Syracuse, N. Y. And he took the title from De Marco on a technical knockout in the 12th round. Yesterday morning he was favored at 8-5. Now it's even money. What gives?"

Commissioner Henry Lamar told De John, "No news about the referee or judges could have leaked out of the commission because we haven't yet made up our minds about who will officiate tonight."

Bookies said the swing to the 23-year-old De Marco was caused by rumors that rangy, raw-boned Basilio had weakened himself paring down toward the 147-pound limit. Also because stocky young Tony should be in much better condition than for their first fight on June 10.

The champion, seeking his 12th straight victory, had been favored because his savage hooking attack wilted De Marco after the seventh round. Tony was on the floor twice in the 10th.

Successful Bull Dog Campaign Will Depend On Play by Juniors

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs, who have their work cut out for them this basketball season, need a few juniors to come through to enjoy a successful season, it was evident last week when they were downed by Carmi in the opening tilt for each team.

The Bull Dogs undoubtedly will be a better team than the fans saw against Carmi, with a couple of tall juniors without any varsity experience, Bryan Jones and Wayne Stone, bound to improve. They were the high scorers for the Bull Dogs in the opener. Other juniors who can do the varsity a lot of good are Bill Henshaw and Bennie Fulkerson.

Last year the Bull Dogs finished with 10 wins and 15 losses, with a 2-10 mark in the South Seven conference. The entire first five from last year's squad is gone—four by graduation and one by quitting school. Graduated were Dave Harrison, Gerald Wasson, Don Price and Charles Polk. Dave Anglin, the team's top scorer who had another year of competition, joined the U. S. Air Force during the summer.

Dorris Injured In Football

That leaves the following boys on Coach Gene Bland's first 11 men:

Seniors — Ronnie Williams, 6-1, 178 pounds; Jack Wright, 6-1, 172 pounds; Tony Beal, 6, 211 pounds; Don McGowan, 5-10, 160 pounds.

Juniors: Bennie Fulkerson, 5-11, 159 pounds; Jim Cummins, 5-8, 128 pounds; Charles Cummins, 5-6, 118 pounds; Bryan Jones, 6-3½, 169 pounds; Bill Henshaw, 6, 164 pounds; Wayne Stone, 6-3, 166 pounds; and Melvin Hicks, 6-1½, 166 pounds.

In last week's opener Coach Bland used Williams and Jones at center, Beal, Stone, Wright and Henshaw at forwards; and McGowan, Fulkerson and Henshaw at guards. Henshaw doubled at both posts.

Cassady Wins Heisman Trophy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The sports world will pay tribute at a dinner in New York Dec. 8 to modest, red-haired Howard (Hopalong) Cassady, Ohio State's two-time All-America halfback who was the overwhelming choice for college football's top individual award, the Heisman Trophy.

The 21-year-old Columbus native, who led the Buckeyes to their second straight Big Ten championship this season, won the award with 2,219 points, the greatest majority in the 21-year history of the trophy.

He polled 594 first place votes in the balloting of 1,324 sportswriters and sportscasters from all over the nation. Selection of the fleet-footed 175-pound halfback was announced in the office of Ohio State University President Howard Bevis Tuesday.

Military Purchases Beef to Bolster Livestock Prices

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson disclosed today that the Defense Department is buying beef from heavy cattle in an effort to bolster livestock prices and bring farmers a higher return.

Benson did not say when the military started making such purchases. But he noted that prices for heavy steers, which reached a low for the season during the week of Nov. 19, have rebounded as much as $1 a hundredweight at Chicago.

Deny Motion to Quash Indictments Of Woman, Daughter

ELIZABETHTOWN, Ill. (AP) — A judge today denied a motion to quash murder indictments against a Hardin county woman and her daughter.

Circuit Judge Charles T. Randolph turned down the motion after hearing oral arguments in the move to quash the charges against Mrs. June Davis and her 17-year-old daughter, Betty, of Cave-in-Rock.

A grand jury indicted them Sept. 27 for the death of Betty Joiner, 19, of Hartford, Conn., a former resident of Cave-in-Rock.

Pettit Leads St. Louis Hawks To 108-95 Win

By United Press

Big Bob Pettit took over the National Basketball Assn. scoring lead today as the result of the season's biggest single-game performance—40 points.

Pettit's brilliant work in leading the St. Louis Hawks to a 108-95 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night gave him a grand total of 252 points, five more than Paul Arizin of Philadelphia.

It also bettered by three points the best single-game effort previously this season, 37 by Neil Johnston of Philadelphia on Nov. 19 against Syracuse. Tuesday night both Philly stars were overshadowed by the six-foot, nine-inch Pettit, Arizin scoring only 14 points and Johnston 12. Pettit also leads the league in average points per game and rebounds.

Pettit notched 14 baskets and 17 free throws as the Hawks seized a 54-36 halftime lead and breezed home.

In other games Tuesday night, a doubleheader at New York, Fort Wayne defeated New York, 104-99, and Boston downed Syracuse, 105-97.

Mel Hutchins spearheaded a Fort Wayne rally that came from a 93-91 deficit with 3½ minutes to play to win. Larry Foust had 28 points and Hutchins 23 for the Pistons, while Ken Sears and Jim Baechtold had 18 each for New York.

George King of Syracuse tallied 31 points, but Boston won easily after holding a 53-46 halftime lead as Ed Macauley scored 27 and Bill Sharman 22.

Four Contestants Win $80,512 On Television Show

NEW YORK (UP) — Four contestants took an $80,512 bite out of a TV giveaway show Tuesday night, the biggest haul in video history.

The biggest chunk on CBS' "The $64,000 Question" went to Steven Frohlich of Princeton, N. J., who quit after running his string to $32,000 in the category, "American History."

Another contestant, psychologist Joyce Brothers of New York, reached the $32,000 level by answering a multiple part query in the category, "boxing."

A third guest, coal miner Stanley Skeens of Danville, W. Va., piled up a $16,000 deposit. Skeens' specialty is the Bible.

The fourth winner was Roscoe Wright of Jamaica, N. Y., who won $512. Wright, a postal employee, reached that plateau by answering four questions on poetry.

The first commercial television license was issued to W-N-B-T (NBC) on July 1, 1941.

Delegates Urge States to Provide Scholarships

WASHINGTON (AP) — Delegates to the White House Conference on Education recommended today that states provide scholarships for needy students to meet "tragic shortages" in the teaching, medical and scientific professions.

They also urged that experts launch a detailed study looking toward the possible extension of the school year to a full 12 months.

The proposals were included in the second general report issued by the 1,800 delegates who are meeting here to study the nation's school problems.

James D. King, Brownwood, Tex., superintendent of schools who helped prepare the report, said the recommendations were not necessarily supported by all of the conference delegates.

But he said they were included in the formal report and will be forwarded to President Eisenhower for possible action on the administration level.

The report was drafted following roundtable consideration of the question: "In what ways can we organize our school systems more efficiently and economically?"

The question of federal aid to education, expected to be the hottest issue at the four-day conference, was slated to come up this afternoon at round-table discussions on "How can we finance our school needs?"

Report Chiang Determined to Cast UN Veto

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is determined to block the admission of Outer Mongolia to the United Nations and will use the Nationalists' Security Council veto if necessary, Taipei dispatches said today.

U. N. diplomats expressed hope that a second appeal by President Eisenhower to Chiang would bring a reversal of the Nationalist decision to veto but the Taipei dispatches said there were "no indications" Chiang would relent.

Nationalist government sources expressed hope a "proper attitude by the Western powers" on the admission of Outer Mongolia would make a veto unnecessary. But the Nationalists were reported adamant.

The Taipei position was that Outer Mongolia was carved out of China proper and that it is not a sovereign state. This was similar to the U. S. view although recent reports said the United States had relented to permit the entry of 17 other nations.

Confer With Minister

United Press Correspondent William Miller reported from Taipei that the U. S. embassy had made repeated representations to the Nationalists through the foreign office during the past two weeks and that Ambassador Karl Rankin and Charge d'Affaires William Cochran had conferred with Foreign Minister George Yeh.

Chinese sources said two appeals from Mr. Eisenhower had been forwarded to the generalissimo—one in the form of a letter and the other as a vocal plea made through Rankin. Both failed to sway Chiang, the sources said.

Court Studies Case to Test Jury Waiver Law

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — The State Supreme Court today took under advisement a case involving the right of an accused person to waive grand jury indictment and go to trial on a criminal information.

The case is a test of the 1955 grand jury waiver law. But about the only point of agreement between opposing counsels today was that if the accused has the right to waive grand jury indictment, then the 1955 law wasn't necessary in the first place.

Both Champaign County State's Atty. John J. Breese, who argued for the waiver for the state, and Attorney C. E. Tate, Champaign, who argued against it, said the Legislature cannot change the constitution.

The constitution provides that in felony class crimes "no person shall be held to answer for a criminal offense unless on indictment of a grand jury . . ."

But Breese, president of the Illinois State's Attorneys Ass'n, which backed the 1955 waiver bill, said this "constitutional limitation" is a "personal privilege" that the accused may waive.

He said "benefits" of waiver — such as a speedy trial, shortening of time in jail before trial and quick serving of prison sentences for those who are guilty — would belong to the accused, not to the prosecution.

Tate said the requirement for indictment was "not a personal privilege but a constitutional judicial pre-requisite." He said the constitution and the 1955 law are "in direct collision."

He said the "question of public rights overshadows any personal privilege" and the grand jury is now, as in the past, a "protection against government oppression, popular passion and prejudice."

Russia Legalizes Abortions

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia legalized abortions in state medical institutions today in an apparent attempt to make planned parenthood more desirable.

The decision reversed long-standing Soviet policy on the subject.

Russia gave two reasons for making abortions in state medical institutions legal.

One reason, it said, is that either married or unmarried women are entitled to planned parenthood. Birth control has always been legal.

Secondly, and most important, was the realistic consideration that the widespread illegal abortions which have been performed since 1936 have seriously impaired many women's health and caused many deaths.

Lloyd L. Parker Furniture Store Sells Shipment to Canada

The Lloyd L. Parker Furniture store, which some time back sold a piano for delivery in South America, today sold a shipment to go to Canada. Mr. Parker said milk glass dishes were sent to Mrs. Blanche Buchanan, who operates an exclusive shop selling ladies' apparel at Saskawan, in Saskatchewan, Canada. The items were sent to Mrs. Buchanan, formerly of this county and who formerly was employed in Harrisburg, by a sister, Mrs. John L. Gee.

Tips for Proper Wrapping of Packages for Mailing

Each year thousands of dollars worth of Christmas gifts arrive at post offices damaged or spoiled because they were not properly packed and wrapped for mailing.

To be sure that carelessness doesn't spoil a Christmas surprise for someone on your list, follow these basic rules when wrapping packages to be sent through the mail:

USE DOUBLE-FACED CORRUGATED CARDBOARD as an extra wrap around all gift-wrapped boxes. Don't attempt to mail in thin cardboard boxes.

PACK FRAGILE GIFTS in cotton or excelsior before boxing.

INSERT A SMALL CARD bearing the recipient's name and address and your return address in case the outside label should get damaged.

LEAVE AT LEAST TWO INCHES between the merchandise and the container and pack it with crumpled paper or excelsior to guard against shock in handling.

USE HEAVY WRAPPING PAPER and strong cord for outside wrapping.

INSURE EVERY GIFT PACKAGE so that if it is lost or damaged the merchandise can be replaced.

Other timely tips on Christmas mailing include: Check with your local post office about weight and girth limitations on parcel post packages.

Remember that any sealed package must carry a notation that it can be opened for inspection. Check the deadline for Christmas mailing and be sure to mail your gift packages early!

Practice Safety For A More Happy Holiday

You feel that Christmas is really here when you start unpacking decorations and putting up the tree. For decorating the home with traditional or original fancies makes the season as full of Christmas as a holly berry.

Safety considerations should rate high when picking your tree for, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, the tree is Christmas' greatest hazard.

They suggest: Choose a small tree and keep it outdoors until a few days before setting it up. If you have land, pick a live tree, cover the dirt with foil and plant it afterwards. Saw the butt of a cut tree slantwise and stand it in a tub of water; locate it away from a fireplace, exit or radiator; avoid untreated paper or cotton or ornaments. Use electric lights with the U L (Underwriters Laboratory) mark . . . never use candles! Don't run electric trains around the base and don't use outlets or plugs under the tree.

When your tree is set up, wire the top to the molding or window frame, using something like light aluminum wire which is inconspicuous.

Don't leave tree lights on when it isn't necessary and especially when the family isn't home. Check your tree regularly to see if needles near the lights are turning brown, and if they are, move the lights to another spot.

A three-mile network of rubber conveyor belts, operating in four directions at once, from barges and coal cars to stockpile and plant, keeps the coal flowing at TVA's Shawnee Plant, near Paducah, Ky.

A 3,350-foot conveyor will keep coal moving from unloading docks of Detroit Edison's River Rouge plant on the Detroit River, to the 1,500,000-ton storage yard.

Aluminum production creates a constantly growing market for bituminous coal for steam generation of power, as illustrated by the fact that two new plants now in the planning and construction stages in West Virginia and Pennsylvania will each require around 1,000,000 tons annually.

Manager Named

Engle

Warren L. Engle, formerly manager of operations of the Kroger Co. in Milwaukee, Wis., has been appointed manager of the company's Carbondale branch which operates stores in this area, it has been announced by Joseph B. Hall, Kroger president. Engle succeeds H. Layton Lindsay, branch manager here for the past four years, who has been named to the same post in the larger Little Rock, Ark., branch.

Both men began with the retail food firm in 1929, Engle as a grocery manager in Peoria, Ill., and Lindsay in the company's Pittsburgh, Pa., warehouse.

Engle served as a district manager in Peoria and as produce merchandiser in Madison, Wis., and Ft. Wayne, Ind., before being named grocery merchandiser in Toledo, O., three years ago. He has been general manager of Kroger operations in Milwaukee since early this year.

Lindsay

As Carbondale branch manager, Engle will be in charge of 59 retail Kroger stores in southern Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri. Branch offices and a warehouse in Carbondale serve the stores.

Lindsay served as Pittsburgh warehouse superintendent and as produce merchandiser both in Pittsburgh and Detroit, Mich. In 1949 he was named general district manager in Grand Rapids, Mich., and later that same year became branch manager in Springfield, Mo. He came to Carbondale in the same position in 1951.

Real Comfort; Consider Pipe, Slippers, Too

Pipe, dog, slippers—three little words that have lured countless unknowing males into the state of matrimony.

Any wife worth her weight in Christmas presents should be able to locate pipe and slippers for her husband. A good dog, however, is hard to find.

Women, in fact, will buy a majority of the pipes sold this Christmas. Men will exchange a majority of the pipes women bought—after Christmas.

Often a man's features determine the kind of pipe he should have. A young thin fellow will feel lost behind the massive bowl of a bulldog pipe; that's the perfect style for a strapping athlete.

A square determined jaw calls for a decisively shaped Dublin. Small features fall in line nicely behind a Prince.

Often it is best to let hubby pick his own pipe and give him pipe accessories instead.

Pipe manufacturer Leonard Rogers recommends some of these newest models.

One is the roll-up pouch with special "built-in" features. One, for example, contains a vinyl plastic humidifying pouch. This, in turn, contains a sponge which, when moistened, will keep the tobacco fresh. Another pouch has a built-in screen to strain the tobacco.

There is also a new Rogers gimmick for half-safe pipes. The pipe-plug deodorizer with activated charcoal will freshen the bowl of the pipe.

MATCH PIPES to facial characteristics when buying a man a new item for his pipe rack.

SHOES ARE A MATTER of necessity. But slippers are ideal gifts for Christmas — for every member of the family. Left to right: two-tone and moccasin for Dad; beaded moccasin for sister; smooth leather scuff for a teenager; cozy lambskin shearling for Mother.

Slippers—a present no he-man would condescend to buy for himself—are something any man will appreciate. This year, leather slippers with woolen or fur lining are the most popular.

Miller Appointed UP Manager In Australia

NEW YORK (AP)—Appointment of Robert C. Miller as United Press manager in Australia was announced today by Frank H. Bartholomew, president.

A veteran of 19 years service with the United Press, Miller won a top reputation as a reporter and correspondent during the war years in the Pacific.

He saw action on both fronts of World War II. He hit the Guadalcanal beaches with the first U. S. Marines, had a tug boat torpedoed under him in the English Channel, went with American forces through Paris to the French frontier. At Verdun a German bomb fragment put him out of action. Two years in hospitals in England and California followed, then coverage of the Nuernberg war crimes trials.

In the summer of 1947 Miller went with the United Nations investigating committee to Palestine, later covered the Iranian-Russian border tension, guerilla campaigns in the Greek mountains, the Arab-Jewish street fighting, and the bloody communal clashes in India.

He served in Korea in 1950 and 1951, with an interlude of coverage of the French campaign in Indochina.

Subsequently he was assigned as bureau manager in Phoenix, Ariz., and covered the 1951 Las Vegas, Nev., atomic tests.

Miller succeeds the late Peter Gruening.

GERMAN IMPORT

The first Christmas tree in America was introduced by the Hessians—fighting for England—during the Revolutionary War. A Catskill farmer sold the first ones to New York City residents in 1850.

Production of starch from cereal grains was described by Marcus Porcius Catokin in B. C. 184.

Furniture Gifts For Man's Own Use Welcomed

Every man needs (and certainly deserves) a den or a cozy corner in the house that is his alone. Let your Christmas gift this year create that favorite spot for him.

Browsing through a furniture store will give you a wealth of ideas on how to make this his best Christmas ever. See the array of handsome desks in styles that will both please him and harmonize with the decor of your home. A desk of his own is a wonderful beginning for his special corner and some other member of the family might add a smart desk lamp for his Christmas.

Or perhaps the gift of an easy chair would strike a happy note with him. There is a wonderful selection of chairs designed for oh-so-relaxing comfort. Other gift ideas are: large occasional tables, big, man-sized hassocks, reading lamps, or a smart game table with matching chairs.

Paper Pulp from Sugar Cane Proves Helpful

GLOUCESTER, Mass. (AP)—Paper pulp from sugar cane stalk.

Thanks to this new process, school children of the Philippines will have textbooks and housewives in Peru will be able to carry home their groceries in paper bags instead of their skirts.

Work done for the paper pulp industry by Gloucester's frozen-food pioneer, Clarence Birdseye, is making all this possible.

For the past two years he has been working in Paramonga, Peru, to set up a plant for making paper pulp from "bagasse," which is crushed sugar cane stalks. It is planned to manufacture the new product in 10 countries from the Philippines to South and Central America and Egypt.

Deck Home to Reflect Spirit Of Christmas

Make this the merriest, brightest Yuletide ever by letting the words from the well-loved Christmas poem—"and all through the house" set the theme for your holiday decorations!

A little extra time and a lot of imagination put into your Christmas decor can give your home a festive air that will delight the children, set a happy holiday mood for your guests and send your own Christmas spirit soaring!

Your Christmas tree will, of course, hold the center of the stage in your holiday-bright home. Since the time for enjoying the Christmas tree comes but once a year and always seems too brief a time, almost every family puts a lot of loving interest and enthusiasm into decorating it.

Family tradition will more or less determine how your tree will be trimmed, but in other phases of the Yuletide decor try excitingly new ideas.

Use the bright Christmas tree balls in dozens of imaginative ways. String them on thin wire and outline your curtain valance. Make gay curtain tie-backs from the smaller size. Tie them on ribbons and hang them at varying lengths for a dramatic splash of holiday color in your picture window.

For an ultra-modern home, make a Christmas mobile of these gleaming balls to catch and reflect the glow of the Christmas tree lights or candlelight.

Tuck these shining ornaments into a cluster of Christmas greens on your mantle and circle the base of the tall candles at each end of the arrangement with them. Or heap them on a glass compote for added holiday glow.

More and more families are accenting the true meaning of Christmas with their decorations. Use the top of book shelf or table for the Nativity scene or place a lovely Madonna figurine in an arrangement of greens and candles.

There are many unusual and eye-catching ways of displaying your Christmas cards as a part of your decor. String them on a red ribbon as a swag, outline a doorway with colorful cards or fasten them to a large wreath over the fireplace. For a dramatic effect fasten them to a tree cut from bright plastic material and light them from below with a concealed lamp.

Make your Christmas feast even more memorable with a beautifully decorated table. Wide red ribbons stretched across a white tablecloth with a huge bow and evergreen sprigs in the center will make your table look like a huge, festive gift package.

Or, create a Yuletide centerpiece from your choice of evergreen sprays, cheery red candles, a tiny Christmas tree, fruits and nuts, or flowers.

So, like the carol — "deck the halls" and make your home radiant with Christmas spirit.

Santa Claus, Ind., Took Its Name on Eve of Christmas

Santa Claus, Indiana is the most famous of all towns bearing names associated with Christmas.

Except for a coincidence, the name of the town may have been any of a number of less colorful names.

Originally, the name desired was Santa Fe, but officials in Washington suggested the town be given another name, since there was already a Santa Fe in New Mexico.

On Christmas Eve, 1882, the townspeople gathered to select another name, but one name after another was rejected, until "Santa Claus" strode into the meeting to get warm. He was in costume, and with his arrival everyone knew what the name of the town would be—Santa Claus, Indiana!

The conversion of Viggo Sand to high and noble purposes was something I had happened to miss. But there the great man was, positively aglow with virtue, nodding his approval. A good loser, Viggo.

Something struck me. In theory, by no means everyone in that room knew what had taken place ashore. By that rule, then, much of what Lynch was saying should be the purest gobblydegock—and at least some faces should have shown it.

Not one did. Every face had been set in so cautious and self-preservative a mold Lynch could have announced the Duralumin chests had turned out to be full of doughnuts and no one would have shown either approval or regret.

"In the early evening of June 16 during stormy weather, an experienced seaman of this vessel, Friedrich Brunke, disappeared. The inference is he was thrown overboard. The further inference, however, since I understand Brunke was a strong and agile man, is that he must first either have been killed or so severely injured that he was rendered unconscious. A professional seaman does not permit himself to be lifted bodily over one of the rails and pitched into the sea."

Lynch drew busily on his cigaret.

"Our ignorance of that first murder is of small importance. It is one of the few conveniences of my profession of detection that a man or woman has but one neck. In a case of multiple killings it is only necessary to prove one of them."

Nobody laughed.

"Later during that same night Manfred Braun in Cabin B was awakened to find someone ransacking his cabin. He grappled with the intruder and was stabbed"—Lynch touched the spot on his own body—"in the left shoulder. I suspect bad aim due to the confusion and darkness.

"I have good reason to believe the stabber's purpose in entering Braun's cabin was not achieved. I say that because a quite cursory search which Mr. Deane and I made of the same room this evening brought to light a most important and revealing document." He pressed his hand to the right side of his jacket.

I was beginning to feel distinctly queer. One of us was a multiple killer. Perhaps the person sitting just beside me. Or across the room.

"Though I may be contradicted, I put forward the hypothesis that the two incidents of that night are intimately connected. That is to say, I believe the same individual had undertaken his search of Braun's cabin at the earlier hour. That the seaman Brunke who had gone casually on deck, saw the intruder, had his curiosity aroused, made it known and was killed for it.

* * *

"Those two occurrences so disturbed Mr. Sand that he interrupted the voyage in New York, where he was able to secure my services. And those of Mr. Deane."

I heard Lily Wyndam snicker.

"The next incident was the violent assault on the watchman Wilhelm Heitzig in Mr. Sand's office. I shall pass over that quickly. There were . . . ah . . . certain fortuitous circumstances with which I will not trouble you."

And a good thing, too!

"Which brings us to last night. Mr. Sand, you have brought the chart with you as I asked?" Lynch held out his hand.

Sand produced from the inner confines of his sumptuous mess jacket the false plan of the Mole St. Nicholas and the fortress.

"Herr Meer! Have you ever seen this?"

Meer, too, had to rise and come over and get it. He took the chart and began to study it.

At last Meer looked up. "I do not understand? This is a map of the Mole. The fort. And it is not. It is a . . . a . . ." He groped for a word. "A cartoon!"

Lynch reached out and took it. "Quite. Yet it is the one in the sealed envelope which was left in Mr. Sand's keeping. The substitution, we know, was effected by Braun, as he chose to call himself, Lieutenant Haller, had from the beginning but one purpose. To betray you."

"It is a lie!"

"And it will be of interest," Lynch went on as if Meer had not spoken, "to learn at precisely what point you discovered it. Please sit down."

* * *

"I would now remind you of the physical situation of the yacht when the final crime occurred. Under Herr Meer's guidance Captain Carey had moored in the slip below the fortress. Herr Meer had expressed a desire to Mr. Sand to go ashore alone. Mr. Sand sent Mr. Dibble to follow him. A guard was then set so that no one else might leave the ship.

"It is no reflection on the sailor Goncalves that the guard was ineffective. As Mr. Deane and myself soon proved.

"Mr. Deane and I did just that. We found that a third person had preceded us. Someone who later fired a shot which struck within less than a dozen inches of Meer's head.

"Meer, just previously to that, had been violently—and I should say quite justifiably—assaulted by a marooned and half-mad seaman of the U-976 who recognized him as the officer who had attempted to kill him on the night when the chests were hidden."

Britain has developed a "Texas Tower" for coal prospecting underseas. The 180-foot high tower now rises out of the Firth of Forth, more than a mile from shore and is drilling test holes in coal beds to determine depth below the sea floor, thickness of seam and quality. Portable, the tower can and will be used wherever undersea coal is known to exist.

Do's, Don'ts For Toy Buyers

Mary Moffett, adviser to the Toy Guidance Council, offers these basic do's and don'ts to the prospective toy buyer:

DO

1. Do think of the child's needs and interests: don't buy impulsively the toys that interest you.
2. Do consider the child's environment.
3. Do remember that an important part of the safety of a toy lies in having it fit the child.
4. Do give careful thought to balancing the toys under the Christmas tree. Some are needfor active play, others for dramatic play. Some should encourage creative activity, others should aid social play.

DON'T

1. Don't be afraid to give young boys and girls the same kind of toys.
2. Don't choose a toy that the child will "grow up to" as an economy measure.
3. Don't expect the youngest child in the family to use the hand-me-down toys of older brother and sister.
4. Don't give toys as a reward for being good or withhold them for bad conduct.

Local Women Attend Cancer Meeting; Drive Chairmen Named

The ninth annual meeting of the Illinois Division of the American Cancer Society was held recently in Chicago and was attended by Mrs. John C. Humm, Mrs. James W. Gaskins, and Mrs. Morris Skaggs.

The two-day conference was held at the Conrad Hilton hotel where more than 350 volunteer workers attending received valuable ideas for building workshops and programs for recruiting and training volunteers, as prepared by Morris L. Harmowitz and Aimee Isgrig of the Human Relations Center, University College, University of Chicago. Two distinguished speakers headlined the event. They were Dr. Harry M. Weaver and Fred K. Hoehler. Dr. Weaver, newly-appointed administrator of research of the American Cancer Society delivered a speech on "Frontiers of Science" and Mr. Hoehler, former state welfare director, spoke on a subject with which he has dealt successfully for many years, "Understanding the Volunteer." The meeting was concluded with the annual report by Dr. John A. Rogers, executive director of the society in Illinois.

It is hoped that in the near future volunteer service will be county-wide. Delta Alpha chapter of Delta Theta Tau has actively carried on the April drive for funds in Harrisburg for the past five years and it has been announced that the campaign chairman for 1956 will be Mrs. Nelson Pankey with Mrs. John D. Slightom, co-chairman. When chairmen have been appointed from the various towns in the county a one-day workshop will be held to acquaint the volunteer workers with the different phases of work done by the Illinois Division of the American Cancer Society.

The Saline county chapter maintains a loan closet in the Home Bureau office in the city hall, where dressings and sick-room supplies for cancer victims are available. Mrs. Mary Harper, home adviser, is the Service chairman and the Home Bureau units make dressings for the loan closet. These dressings are dispensed without charge. All other supplies such as rubber sheeting, urinals, bed pans, rubber rings, glass drinking straws are loaned to the patients. Transportation is also available through the society to the nearest Cancer clinic. Films and literature are available at all times for meetings by calling Mrs. James W. Gaskins, education chairman.

The Illinois division has awarded grants totaling $315,111 for the coming year and Saline county has received $600 for its 1955-56 program. Of this amount $230 will be allocated to public education to give the residents of this county the fullest information about cancer and how to combat it. The service program, which includes the loan closet and cancer dressings will receive $370.

Anyone interested in volunteer work for the American Cancer Society are asked to contact Mrs. John Humm, chairman, or Mrs. Morris Skaggs.

Plugging In a Happy Kitchen Yule

Sparkling new gifts for the kitchen are as efficient as they are stylish. King-sized deep fat fryer (left) joins the built-in major appliances in the kitchen where guests come often in large numbers. New plug-in electric appliances (right) include copper and stainless steel tea kettle and turquoise and steel skillet; newly designed outlet center has four outlets and an automatic timer. Colorful new pots and pans (inset) can go right from the stove to the table.

BY KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

Kitchens will be filled with Christmas cheer this year with gifts designed to bring sparkling color, fine styling and labor-saving convenience into this workaday world.

High on the list are plug-in electrical cooking appliances which have proved their ability to handle many cooking operations automatically and quickly.

One of the newest promised for Christmas giving is a sparkling tea kettle of copper and stainless steel which is designed to be used on the dinner table as well as in the kitchen.

Color touches other appliances —an electric skillet, for example, has a pale turquoise base fitted with a stainless steel top. For greater convenience in using skillets, roasters, bean pots, deep fryers and such, a newly designed wall unit offers four outlets and a timer clock to start and stop an appliance at a pre-determined hour.

Ordinary cooking utensils have been tapped for special attention to double their service and halve the dish-washing chore. Brilliant new colors and designs glazed on the surfaces of porcelain-enameled coffeepots, roasters, casseroles and saucepans take these utensils from stove to table with no apologies needed.

Hostesses will welcome in particular the big decorated coffeepots and pans which hold enough beverage or main dish to handle a sizable crowd. Candle warmer bases are available for several of these cooking-serving utensils.

Smartly styled canister sets with unusual design motifs will find their way under many trees. So will kitchen towels like new Turkish towels colored in fashionable shades of pink, turquoise, beige, or lime. Sophisticated motifs on these inexpensive lintless no-iron towels are splashed against striped or diamond-patterned backgrounds.

Not to be overlooked as welcome gifts are such utiltarian labor-savers as pink, blue or white nylon mops, sponge mops, colorful hand sponges, light pretty pails and wastebaskets. It's a simple matter to pretty them up as gifts with a festive trimming.

Very few kitchens have an adequate supply of good cutlery so knives make sharp gifts. One new set combines several sizes of razor-edged knives lodged in a drawer under a hardwood cutting board top.

Biggest and grandest of Christmas gifts for the kitchen are the major appliances, which can provide years of helpful service. Along with dishwashers, range tops, built-in ovens, refrigerators and freezers comes a new major appliance — a king-sized deep fat fryer.

This is designed for under-the-counter installation and for the hospitable home where guests gather frequently and in large numbers. Twin frying baskets fit into the deep well frying compartment which glides out from behind brushed chrome doors. Thermostatic control of heat insures proper fat temperatures.

Gift-Buying Tips-for Men Only

Maybe the real answer to men who want to buy clothing for their ladies is: don't.

There are generally two reasons. First, a gent can make a mistake very easily and then be hurt when his gift is exchanged. And second, there is some embarrassment attached to this kind of gift shopping.

But, an unauthoritative survey of Christmas shoppers (men) in clothing departments (women's) reveals that no Canute can stem the tide.

So, the first thing to do is avoid the embarrassment. This is done by staying out of the underthings departments. Let the women shop for these things themselves. The borderline is the nightgown counter. But let the salesperson help you. In fact, demand it. You can always claim later that she forced it on you.

* * *

The newest fashions in nightgowns are "shorties" which come only to the knee. Avisco has a new selection this year that's just short of flamboyant.

And on into the outerwear categories.

It's a safe rule never to buy anything that's form-fitting like a suit or shoes or fitted blouse.

It's also a safe rule never to buy

* * *

It's also a good idea to stay away from styles that she doesn't usually wear. Like: A dressy dress if she wears suits or loafers if she wears high heels all the time.

And one other little thing. In this man's world women go by the simple philosophy that they can buy the gents things the gents would never buy for themselves. This means horrid neckties, too-loud shirts or buggy whips.

But it's really woman's world. And you can't buy her things she'd never buy for herself because she will, has or is going to buy them for herself.

So, stick to what you know she likes. And keep an ear open for the little hints that will plummet around your head.

* * *

Safe things to purchase are: Stockings, blouses, shirts, slippers, jewelry (the more expensive, the better), accessories like handbags, gloves, belts, and general articles where all you need are store sizes.

BOX jacket is water, stain resistant. Collar unfolds into hood. Zipper front, warm knit wristlets.

V-NECK cashmere with simple neckline and overlapping wide band. Three-quarter sleeves.

This business of buying women's clothes is still tricky, no matter how much you spend. According to one average woman, it's because:

"Children hate to get clothing gifts, no matter how utilitarian. And this repugnance extends into puberty and thence into adulthood. I have always maintained . . ."

And then she was lost in the crowd.

* * *

But just for tentative suggestions, you might take a look at these few items, selected at random by a male who was shopping for a female:

A plaid shirt by Lady Hathaway in washable viyella.

A V-neck cashmere with three-quarter sleeves by Hadley.

High-fashion gloves with eight buttons. The gloves look like doeskin, but they're really fabric. Woven by Pinkham.

One last word. If it's fur you're after, you don't need advice.

ALMOST doeskin. But these gloves are really woven fabric. This one's gray with eight buttons.

MATCHED leather handbag, belt and gloves. The bag has hidden gusset — to hold everything.

CASUAL topping for cashmeres, tweeds is snappy little vest of cotton corduroy with hip tabs.

SHIRT in tartan has convertible collar and button cuffs. Viyella flannel makes it washable.

PERKY sleepwear: rayon challis shortie gown. Fabric is soft and easily washable. For younger gals.

Make Your Yule Cards for More Personal Touch

This year why not give your Christmas cards a truly personal touch by making them yourself? You'll find it's fun to do and that your friends will be doubly thrilled with the extra thought and time that went into your holiday greeting.

All you'll need is a pair of scissors, transparent glue, and some inexpensive materials from your favorite stationery or variety store.

It's best to keep your design simple for a smart card. Let materials with interesting textures create the desired effect. Use rough construction paper, smooth metallic paper, bits of yarn, tinsel, paper, lace doilies, sprigs of real evergreen and net to make your designs.

Make your folders of rough-textured construction paper and create designs on the front. You can cut out modern, triangular Christmas trees, colorful ornaments, angels or other Christmas motifs and paste them on the front with sparkling touches of sequins or star stickers. Use "Merry Christmas" stickers for your message or write your greeting inside.

BUY TREE EARLY

Christmas trees should be purchased early to insure good buys. To preserve tree, first cut an inch off stub end. Place end in a good sized pail of water. Then, every few days, sprinkle foliage with a hose.

LET IT SNOW

A Christmas snow scene may be easily simulated on mirror or window. Sapolin Paint's new "spray-on" frosting frosts any surface. It is effective on vase and tree decorations.

PROTECT GIFTS

Breakable objects should be wrapped with care. Hollow objects such as vases should be stuffed with newspaper. Projecting parts — handles — should be cushioned in paper. Then object is enclosed in lightweight corrugated paper.

O'Mahoney Hits 36-Month Terms For Buying Autos

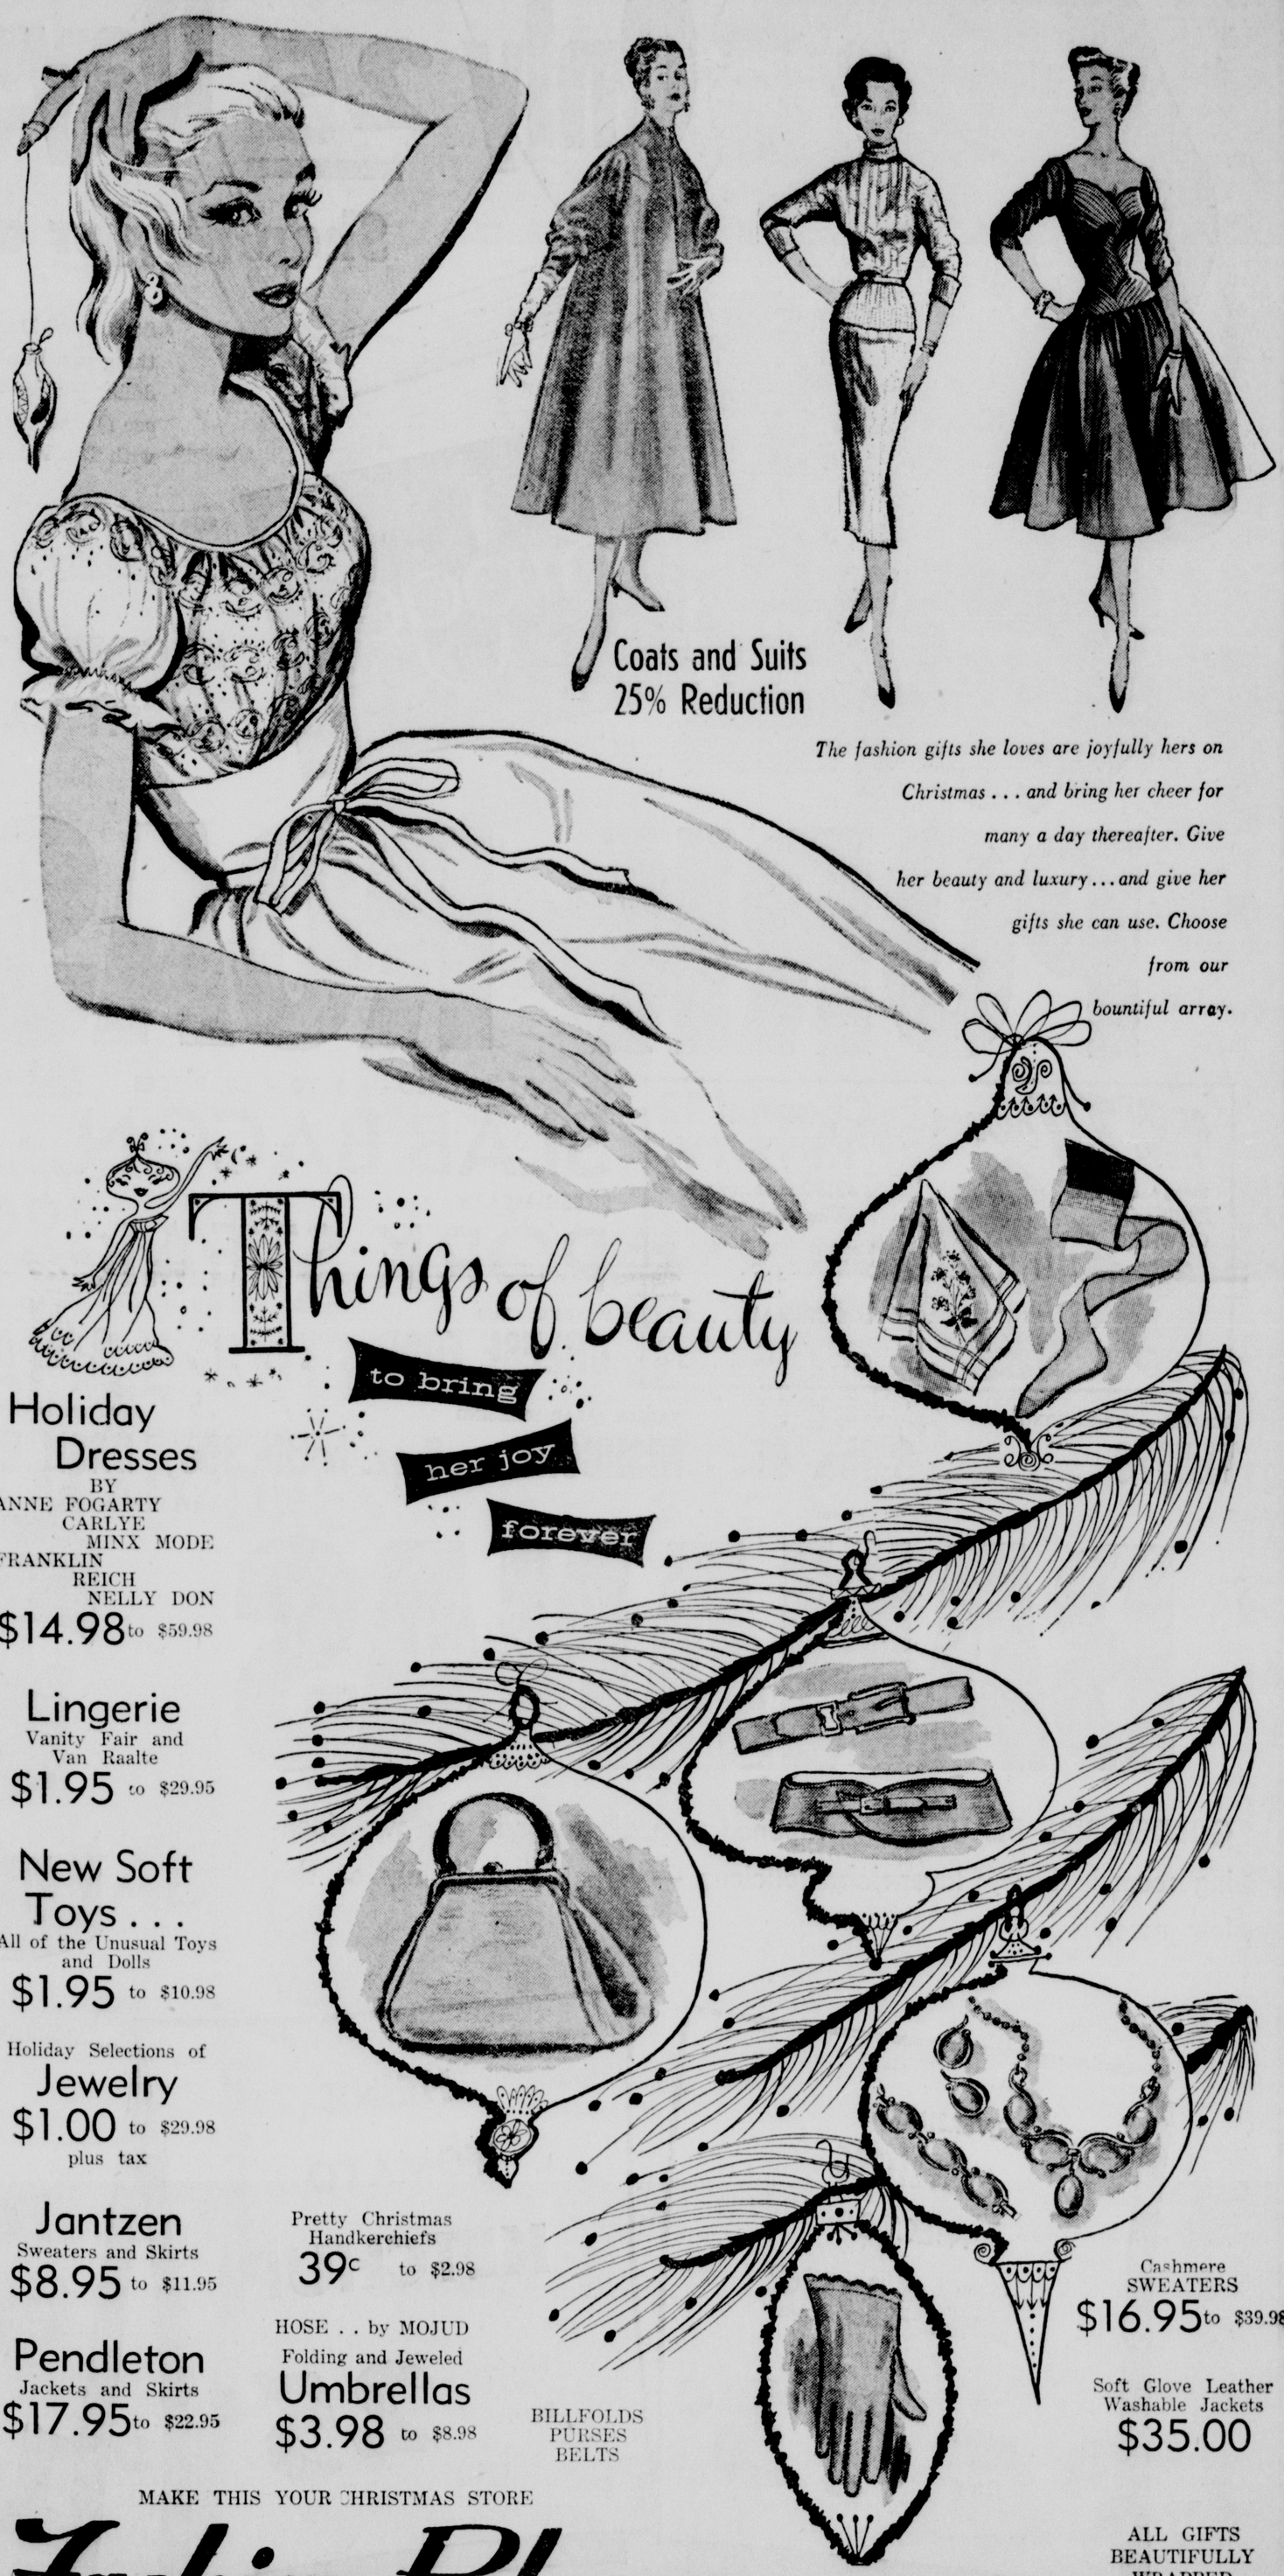

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney of the Senate monopoly subcommittee said today 36 months is too long to give buyers to pay for autos.

"Many persons in the United States today are driving autos they will never own," the Wyoming Democrat said at the subcommittee's investigation of General Motors Corp.

But Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said the subcommittee should "be very careful in making any recommendations that would restrict the purchases of autos."

As of June 15, 1955, the Department of Agriculture reported 257,301,218 bushels of 1954 crop corn under support loans in the U. S.

Modern Toys are Lures on Road to Education, Played-Out Reporter Claims

NEW YORK, N. Y.—If a child could own and operate every toy on the market today, he would accumulate enough knowledge for a college degree.

That is not the opinion of any well-known toy manufacturer or educator.

It is the opinion of one played-out reporter after an afternoon matching wits with the toys at the Toy Guidance Council's New York showroom.

Any kid able to use the hundreds of toys on the market today deserves a Master of Toys degree. This degree could be given on a credit system. One point, for example, might be given when the child is able to use alphabet blocks intelligently. At least 25 points ought to be given to the child able to duplicate the Brooklyn bridge with an Erector set.

* * *

The remarkable thing is that the kids can't see it coming. The education is camouflaged. It even looks like fun. According to most kids, it is fun.

The educators begin their work when the child is still a member of the bib-and-diaper set. Crib exercisers enable the toddler to grasp objects firmly. What objects? Why, toys and games, of course. Toys and games that enable the brain cells to keep pace with the muscle cells.

The child is then given a train set known as "chuggedy-chug." In the good old days a toy train was considered satisfactory if it would do two things: slide easily and go "choo-choo." Then they added frills, a roundhouse and trestles.

That's the catch. "Chuggedy-chug" has a roundhouse all right. Trouble is that you can't use the roundhouse unless you know how to count.

They hand the baby a game called "Candyland." Any child that immediately envisions an eating treat, better forget such thoughts. This is a board game with a gimmick: all moves are based on a child's ability to distinguish colors.

While all this is going on, the educators keep rolling blocks, alphabet blocks, from their white towers.

By the time he can crawl, today's youth is able to count, pronounce the alphabet and name the colors. A decade ago he would have been classed as a prodigy and enrolled in Harvard law school at the age of 15.

But, the toy manufacturer's brain trust has just begun to fight. By now the child is set for a little basic philosophy. "Annie Oakley" is a children's game based on a wild west chase for bad men. The good guys never lose, which is as it should be.

* * *

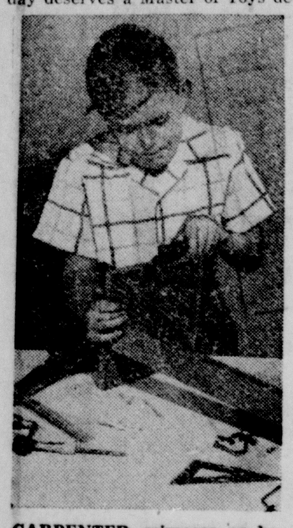

With this firm base in ethical theory, the child is well prepared to face the passing of years . . . and more educational games.

"Pathfinder" can be played well only when the child has an understanding of basic geometry. "Game of the States" teaches geography and natural history. Traffic regulations are learned by playing "Drive-Ur-Self."

Toddlers with Wall Street aspirations are given games of high finance such as "Easy Money" and "Monopoly." Once the money is made, it must be spent wisely. The child is set for science research.

Chemistry sets are introduced. First the child is given the simpler models with a mere 100 experiments. Just before commencement exercises from the school of fine games, the child must master the final test, the set with over 700 experiments. It bears the ominous title, "The Atomic Energy Set."

Degree clenched in fist, the average 7-year-old of today is ready. Ready for the second grade.

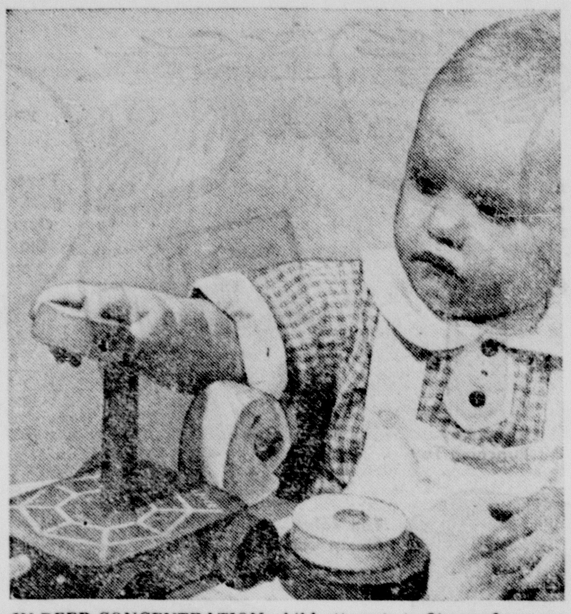

CARPENTER grimaces as he planes edge of bookcase base. Tool sets make good presents for all males.

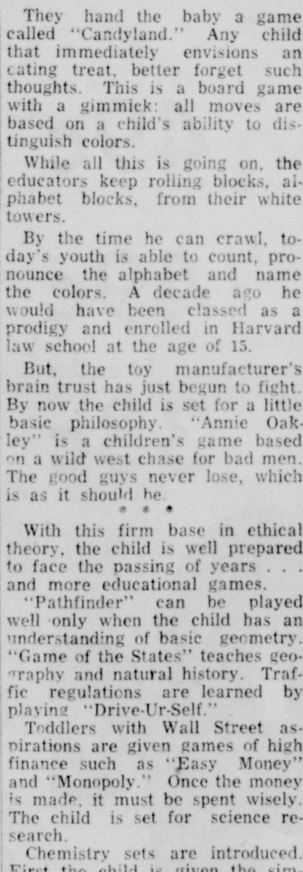

DRIVER OF THE FUTURE cracks up toy auto as he plays game which teaches the value of safe driving practices. One player turns wheel, controlling auto's progress along moving highway. Competitor controls mobile highway's speed.

MINDS MEET as two children undertake a wit-battle with new game designed to camouflage education in a shrubbery of enjoyment. Game is slanted to several age levels: young and old may join in the fun on equal competitive terms.

IN DEEP CONCENTRATION, child attempts to fit round peg on round hole. It's not so easy as it sounds — when you're a little over a year old. This is first step in "learn-as-you-play" plan of modern toy manufactures.

CONVERTIBLE sportscar contains 60 pieces. When assembled, it will start and stop by remote control.

PINT-SIZED chemist examines test tube as he attempts to build pint-sized atomic reactor from ingredients.

Manufacturer Extolls Handicapped Workers

LOCKPORT, N. Y. (AP)—John W. Solotes, credits much of his business success to the above-average ability of his handicapped employes.

Solotes, owner of the Lockport Broom Co., said "my handicapped workers have proven more dependable, honest and loyal than many others I have known."

The plant employes include four blind men and a youth with an artificial leg. Three additional blind employes will begin work when new machines are installed.

Solotes said he learned the capabilities of handicapped workers while working in a factory as a youth. Edward Sliker, of Lockport, who is blind, worked with Solotes at that time. Sliker is one of Solotes' present employes. The two men have been working together for 35 years.

AROUND SPRINGFIELD

By DON E. CHAMBERLAIN

Gov. Stratton is Pleased with Operation of State Institutions

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—Gov. William G. Stratton is pleased with operation of Illinois' state welfare and penal institutions. He recently visited the Vandalia State Penal Farm, Menard Penitentiary and Alton State hospital, and except for an occasional flaw, declared he was well satisfied with their operation as well as those visited previously. Last month and in September he inspected institutions at Chicago, Elgin, Geneva, St. Charles, Sheridan and Dwight.

Accompanied by Mrs. Stratton, the Governor dropped in at Vandalia early last week for a scheduled tour. When it was over Mrs. Stratton had accumulated a 75-year old hand coffee maker, which she will use at the executive mansion when formalities have been gone through to have it declared surplus and the Governor had acquired a stark looking painting of himself by an inmate. It was sent back to Springfield for possible hanging in the mansion or in his office.

The Governor and the Missus were accompanied on the Vandalia tour by newsmen and several legislators from the 40th Senatorial district in which Vandalia is located. One place visited was the solitary block where mutinous inmates are lodged but there were no occupants as the Strattons went thru the building containing 16 cells. Six inmates who had been in the cells benefitted by the Governor's visit. They were released to their own cells before he arrived.

Mrs. Stratton Interested

As he was leaving the solitary block Stratton paused to observe two broken windows and went back to look them over carefully. He called the attention of the guard on duty to the broken windows and said "see that they are fixed." He remarked on improved equipment in the laundry and farm kitchen, which came from a recent appropriation and said he was glad to see that some new showers had been installed in several dormitories.

Mrs. Stratton was interested in the difference between the attitude of prisoners in one dormitory and that of those in another, remarking that the restlessness of inmates in one was much different than the relaxed appearance of those in another and guessed that the restless ones must be new arrivals and was told she was right. Mrs. Stratton disclosed she has visited practically every state institution since her husband became Governor in January, 1953.

She also was interested in whether a majority of the inmates got out on the farm each day and nodded approval when told that such was the case. At one dormitory where several inmates appeared to have gotten up from their cots to stand at attention while the Strattons moved through the dormitory aisle, it was explained they were men who had been on night fire watch. Stratton approved a suggestion that inmates should have foot lockers to store their personal possessions.

Disapproves of Eye Sore

He showed disapproval of a rickety-looking wooden corn crib which sways in a strong wind remarking "I'll be glad when you get rid of that eyesore." He had reference to the fact that the 69th General Assembly appropriated money for a new crib. He didn't agree with a suggestion that the farm be supplied with a $12,000 bulldozer to clear land but said he would see if the highways division couldn't loan them one when it was not in use.

As he was leaving he complimented Farm Superintendent Glenn Murphy, Mt. Vernon, on the condition of the institution as well as its morale saying "I always like to see a superintendent who acts like he knows what he is doing." Later traveling to Vandalia he said that while he does not feel that institutional heads should be permanent he did think that "when a man does a good job he has a right to hope to be kept on by a new regime."

At Vandalia he took time out to shake hands with nearly a hundred persons who had been assembled in a hotel lobby by the Fayette county chairman to greet the Governor. From there he walked over to the old Capitol, on the site of which he has made many campaign speeches and made his first visit to the Governor's office consisting of a desk, chair and quill pen. He suggested rooms in the old capitol be livened up with some venetian blinds and with state and national flags.

Samples Food

Both at Vandalia and Alton the Governor gave close inspection to the food being served. At Vandalia he asked for a ladle with which to taste some baked beans. When they brought him a teaspoon he remarked "I can't get much of a taste with that" but went ahead. After tasting it he said that "That tastes so good I wish I could stay awhile and eat with you." There was a chorus from the inmates "we wish you would."

At Alton he noticed the ceiling of a room where the paint had peeled and asked if it ever leaked. He was told that it had but that it had been fixed. He often broke away from his guides to drop into a ward or dormitory. He expressed himself as well satisfied with conditions remarking that he hadn't seen any patient sleeping on the floor. One patient he knew. He was from Breese in Clinton county and Stratton recalled him from his campaign days.

At Menard where the convict population is over the 2,600 mark, he was told by Warden Ross Randolph, a holdover from the Stevenson regime, that the per capita cost of maintaining each inmate is $1,003.27 and that the cost of each meal served averages out 25.26 cents. He praised Randolph on "cleaning up" the prison which in 1952 was the scene of a serious riot and which was only halted by the appearance of fermer Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson who broke up his presidential campaign to do so.

Later Randolph said the Gover

New System Would Caution Speeders

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Flashing signs on highways may soon warn individual motorists that they are exceeding the speed limit.

Ligore G. Fenerli, a civil engineering student at the University of Michigan who is specializing in highway traffic control, has devised a new system which could either warn the speeding motorists or take down their license plate numbers.

Two photoelectric relays would be placed along the road a few feet apart. The relays would record the time it takes a car to travel a given distance and translate it into the speed needed to cover the distance in that period of time.

If the speed exceeded the permissible time limit on the highway, the relays would trigger either a camera, which would photograph the license number of the car, or a sign placed farther down the highway.

The sign, when triggered, would flash some previously prepared message such as "Slow down, you are driving over 60."

It wouldn't be Christmas without a gay array of leather slippers for all the family! For brother: two-tone leather with plaid linings; beaded moccasins for Sis and gay shearling lambskin scuffs for big sister or Mom; a soft-soled moccasin with lacing for big brother, and a trim moccasin style in dark leather for Dad.

Luggage Gifts Need Planning

Diplomats en route to international conferences might justifiably shun a "shocking pink" overnight bag. Similarly, today's teen-ager might not like to cart a wardrobe steamer trunk on weekend trips.

When buying luggage, as in buying any Christmas gift, the needs of the user should be considered. Accessories for travel will be doubly appreciated if the buyer keeps these tips in mind:

1. Attempt to match the case to an already existing set. Or, try to correlate colors. For example, a plaid duffle should match the predominant shade of solid-color luggage.

2. Consider the travel habits of the user before choosing the case. A college student, spending her free time flitting from one male school to another, might well appreciate a hat box. An air traveler will like a lightweight model and a motorist might prefer a hanging garment carrier.

3. Some designs are strictly masculine. This is true of the 'suiter bag, companion case and club bag. The hatbox, train case and overnight fitted bag are feminine accessories.

4. If the luggage will receive hard use, check for a durable covering. Also make sure that the handles are comfortable and securely anchored, the hardware and locks are sturdy, and the linings are securely fitted.

5. Initials and monograms should be included in every instance. These protect the owner from theft and loss.
